

Five Rules to Know BADMINTON

Scoring System

Matches are played best of three games to 21 points, using rally scoring where a point is scored on every rally, regardless of which side served.

Serving Rules

The serve must be delivered underhand with the shuttlecock struck below the server's waist, and it must land diagonally in the opponent's service court.

Shuttlecock in Play

During play, the shuttlecock must remain airborne, and a point is lost if it touches the ground, lands outside the boundaries, passes through the net, or hits a player's body or clothing.

Faults

Faults occur if a player touches the net, strikes the shuttlecock before it crosses the net, or if the same side hits the shuttlecock more than once during a rally.

Player Rotation in Doubles

In doubles, players must alternate serving and receiving, switching service courts as points are scored to ensure equal participation.
